

PRIVACY POLICY

Jericho Project strives to manage and protect personal information only in those ways outlined in the following privacy statement. This statement only applies to information collected by this website.

Modifications of Privacy Policy

Jericho Project reserves the right to modify this Privacy policy and any revision will be presented on this page.

Information Collected

Jericho Project may request information from the user or client in the following manner: Company name and contact, preferred method of contact and appropriate details, topic of interest and associated comments.

Use of Collected Information

The information obtained from the user or client will be used for the following purposes: contacting the user or potential client directly if necessary, establishing access to specific client areas, requesting further information from the user, answering enquiries.

Offering Information to Third Parties

Jericho Project shall not disclose any information collected through the website to third parties other than for the following purposes:

1. When it is required by other business-related parties for the purposes listed within this policy.
2. When the user has granted permission to disclose such information.
3. When it is required by law.

Display, Revision, Suspension & Deletion of Information

Jericho Project will respond promptly to receiving a request on display, revision, suspension and deletion of personal information.

Log Data

Jericho Project collects information regarding the number of visits and associated factors from visitors to the website. It does not access or retain any personal information from such data collection and only uses such information for the purposes of website improvements and statistical analysis.